Those are just a few words I would choose to describe Capturing Peace. I really don't know how Molly does it (and if you're reading this Molly, I freakin' love you!). Every emotion that Coen, Reagan, Parker and the others felt just flew right off the pages- every laugh, every cry, every heartbreak.

I am a huge fan of Molly McAdams' books. But with Capturing Peace, I was in awe. With this beautiful creation I felt the characters feelings/emotions and fell so hard for them. I laughed, I cried, I swooned and more. I was incredibly touched especially because I could relate to having a "new" parent. My biological Dad passed away when I was 4 or 5.
