The harmonic minor scale is the same as the natural minor scale but with a raised 7th degree. Raising the 7th degree by half a step gives the scale a much stronger harmonic foundation and allows you to create more interesting harmonic possibilities in minor keys. To build a minor 251 progression, you must use chords from the harmonic minor scale comping. Comping provides rhythmic and harmonic support for soloist and/or the ensemble. In most swing arrangements, various instruments will play and improvise over some form of chord progressions and/or rhythmic beat. Most soloists, especially beginners, need to have a good solid foundation and understanding of chord changes or a chord progression to feel comfortable in their improvisation.
