Below are some of my learning points from the book "Multipliers: How the best leaders make everyone smarter" by Lize Wiseman. In the book Wiseman introduces 2 types of leaders: Multipliers and Diminishers. As the names suggest, Multipliers are leaders who can "multiply" the smartness of the organization they manage, while Diminishers do the reverse.

Multipliers: How the Best Leaders Make Everyone Smarter ...

- Multipliers are leaders who bring out others' capability and intelligence. They're "genius makers" who multiply an organization's collective intelligence.
- Diminishers are leaders who're so absorbed in their own genius that they stifle others', thus depleting the organization's vital intellectual resources.

Book Summary - Multipliers: How the Best Leaders Make ...

A long time back, I read Multipliers: How The Best Leaders Make Everyone Smarter by Liz Wiseman. It's a great book worth reading for any person who is considering taking a leadership role. In this article, I will share my perspective of Multipliers, and their opposites, the Diminishers.

Multipliers - Pat Kua

The first type, Diminishers, drains intelligence, energy, and capability from the people around them and always needs to be the smartest person in the room. The second type, Multipliers, are the leaders who use their intelligence to amplify the smarts and capabilities of the people around them.

Multipliers - The Wiseman Group

In her 2010 book, Multipliers, Liz Wiseman examines the qualities and behaviors that distinguish good leaders (which she classifies as "Multipliers") from bad ones (known as "Diminishers").
