After Griffin was wounded and honorably discharged from the military, he returned to his hometown to care for his ailing parents. Griffin is a different man now, struggling with his own demons and under pressure to conform to the burdens of an alpha. His father refuses to sell the family hotels because he wants his son to take over his legacy.

An Omega Seamaster 300M was the perfect candidate. In all honesty, a Rolex Submariner could have done the trick as well, but at the time the difference in price was substantial (as it is today again in fact) and my heart was closer to Omega already at that time as well, due to the family affair I have with the brand from Biel.
